

CALL FOR PAPERS

12th Nordic Summer Symposium in Macroeconomics

Bjørnefjorden, Norway

August 9-12, 2018

Deadline: April 20

Objective

The symposium is an academic research conference in the area of macroeconomics, primarily aimed at promoting frontier contributions by junior researchers in macroeconomics. The symposium allows the junior researchers to present and discuss their research and to receive advice and constructive feedback from more senior macroeconomic scholars.

Who Should Apply?

This call is aimed at junior researchers in macroeconomics. “Junior” refers to those about to graduate from a PhD program, assistant professors, and recently tenured senior professors. A connection to the Nordic countries is an advantage but not a prerequisite.

Topics

Papers on all topics broadly associated with macroeconomics are welcome – including “standard” macroeconomic analysis (real and monetary business cycles, labor markets, growth etc.), as well as issues such as public finance, human capital accumulation, firm dynamics, asset pricing, heterogeneous agents, income distribution, credit markets and political economy.

Keynote speaker: Emmanuel Fahri (Harvard University)
